

God's Spirit Never Runs Dry

David Wilkerson (1931-2011) May 16, 2019

If we live by faith, we will not fear for the future of God's church. "On this rock I will build My church, and the gates of Hades shall not prevail against it" (Matthew 16:18). This pledge from Jesus has emboldened the faith of generations and it is meant to sustain us now in this generation.

Timothy is warned, "In latter times some will depart from the faith" (1 Timothy 4:1). In perilous times such as ours, our leaders will arise "having a form of godliness but denying its power" (2 Timothy 3:5). Under the influence of these false leaders, many believers will grow cold or lukewarm and still others will lose their faith altogether and fall away from Christ.

Yet, according to Joel, God is going to pour out His Spirit at the same time: "I will pour out My Spirit on all flesh; your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, your old men shall dream dreams, your young men shall see visions. And also on My menservants and on My maidservants I will pour out My Spirit in those days" (Joel 2:28-29).

The Psalmist writes, "You send forth Your Spirit ... and You renew the face of the earth" (Psalm 104:30). God's Spirit has never been depleted; he can pour out as he pleases. In the midst of calamitous times, there will be a great harvest. The unsaved are going to turn to believers and cry, "God is clearly with you. Tell me, how can I know this peace?" Our God knows the name and address of every proud and lost person and he is reaching out in merciful love to each one.

I encourage you, as a believer, to let God speak forth his promises so that others will see your testimony and be drawn to him. Trust in God's faithful Word: "The name of the Lord is a strong tower; the righteous run to it and are safe" (Proverbs 18:10).
